

Physiotherapy day celebrated at Amity

To mark the mammoth contribution of Physiotherapy in treating patients all over the world, September 8 is observed as World Physiotherapy Day. Amity Institute of Physiotherapy celebrated the same at Amity Campus at Noida by organising a seminar in which distinguished physiotherapists presented their views on the vital areas of physiotherapy. Welcoming the distinguished gathering, Nitish Bansal, director, Amity Institute of Physiotherapy, expressed his gratitude to the distinguished speakers for making it to the seminar. Throwing light on the "Scope of Practice in Physiotherapy", Alakananda Banerjee, Head, Physiotherapy Department, Max Hospital, Saket, called upon budding physiotherapists to keep their mind open to the various options available. A physiotherapist can work on obesity or cardiovascular ailments and not just on orthopaedic problems, as traditionally considered. She advised students that they can build up their physiotherapy profession wherever they are, even in the remotest corner of the country.
